

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What is the next job you would like to do?
- What goals would you have for that job?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about goals and experiences related to jobs.
- I can discuss future plans.
- I can talk about facts and courses of actions.

Let's Explore!

Kristi is excited about her new job.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Bianca: So you start on February 8th, don't you?

Kristi: Yes, I do. I'm so pumped up!

Bianca: That's a Monday, isn't it?

Kristi: Yes, I believe so.

Bianca: What I want you to do is to make some goals for this job. You should have made some by now.

Kristi: I start on February 8th, as you know. In May, I will have worked there for three months and hopefully during that time, I will have been working closely with some of my talented colleagues. By then, I feel that I will have learned enough that my role will be increased beyond just assistant editing. I want to make an impact right out of the gate and certainly don't want to get off on the wrong foot. I also have some bills that must be paid and a student loan that should be addressed.

Bianca: Well, you seem to be on the right track. You wanted to buy a car, didn't you?

Kristi: What I want is a used car. In August, I will hopefully have saved enough money to buy one.

Bianca: That sounds like a plan, but you're not finished, are you?

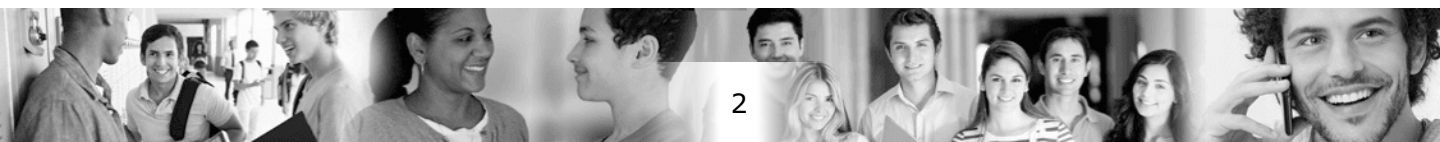

Kristi: Nope. I have a plethora of ideas. It should be mentioned that I received another text from Boris today. What he wanted was to tell me about another editorial assistant job. They are looking for another editorial assistant and they thought I might know someone. The job starts the week after mine does.

Bianca: You are going to ask Adam, aren't you?

Kristi: Good idea! I'll text him right now!

Bianca: Are you sure? What worries me is that you are new and if Adam doesn't do a good job, it may reflect badly on you.

Kristi: Oh, he'll be fine. It's an ideal job for him. Don't worry!

Let's Practice!

What does Boris want you to do?

Instructions: Draw a line to match the sentences in Column A and Column B. When you complete the sentences, read the sentences aloud with your partner. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

COLUMN A

1. What _____ is to make some goals for this job.
2. _____ a used car.
3. What he wanted _____ another editorial assistant job.
4. _____ that you are new and if Adam doesn't do a good job, it may reflect badly on you.

COLUMN B

- a. was to tell me about
- b. I want you to do
- c. What I want is
- d. What worries me is

Let's Practice!

Kristi plans what to do.

Instructions: Select the correct answer. Practice saying the complete sentences aloud with your partner. Correct each other.

1. I also have some bills that _____.

- a. must been paid
- b. must be paid
- c. must being paid

3. You should _____ some by now.

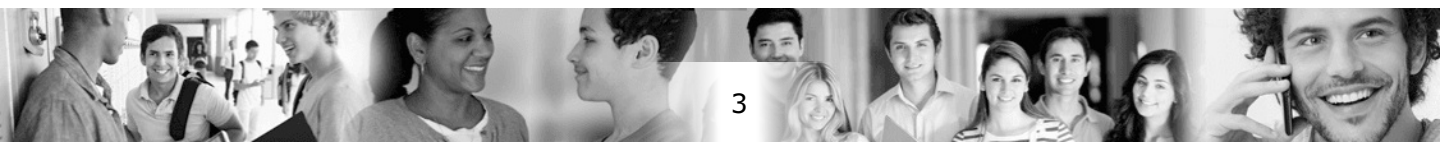

- a. have makes
- b. have mad
- c. have made
- d. has made

2. I have a student loan that should _____.

- a. been addressed
- b. been address
- c. be address
- d. be addressed

4. It should _____ that I received another text from Boris today.

- a. be mention
- b. being mentioned
- c. be mentioned
- d. been mentioned

Extension Activity

What are you going to do now?

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- In groups of three, brainstorm ideas for a dream job.
- Imagine you have just gotten your dream job.
- Write your future goals for your dream job.
- One partner writes the goals for now.
- One writes the goals for the near future.
- One writes the goals for the distant future.
- Share your stories as a group and compare your results.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I imagine attaining my dream job.

☐ ☐

I write future goals using Future Tense.

☐ ☐

I share my stories with my group clearly.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- pumped up (expression): motivated; excited
e.g. That job seminar has me so pumped up right now!
- right out of the gate (expression): from the beginning
e.g. I think it turned the interviewer off right out of the gate.
- to start off on the wrong foot (expression): to begin in an awkward or unpleasant way e.g. This interview has started off on the wrong foot.
- ideal (adjective): perfect
e.g. Your skills and experience will be an ideal fit for our team.
- sounds like a plan (expression): that's a good idea
e.g.
Kristi: Let's meet Thursday?
Bianca: Sounds like a plan.

Learning Points

Passive Voice with Modals

You use the passive voice when you want to focus on the receiver of the action, rather than the 'doer' of the action.

You can also use modal verbs in the passive voice.

Sometimes, something must/can/should be done by someone. In that case, we use some modal verbs. Remember, after a modal verb, to is not necessary before the main verb.

For example:

Example: This lesson must be practiced.

Modal verbs can add meaning connected with suggestion or obligation.

Here is the structure of a passive sentence:

Subject + modal verb + be + past participle of the main verb

For example:

The company must be sold on your performance.

Now that you have a new job, your car has to be fixed.

The bills have to be paid by tomorrow.

subject	have/has/must	(to) be	past participle
Your car	has	to be	fixed.
The bills	have	to be	paid by Tuesday.
The employer	must	be	sold.

Examples:

- I also have some bills that must be paid and a student loan that should be addressed.
- The project should be presented next Friday.
- It should be mentioned that I received another text from Boris today.

Learning Points

What-Clauses and Long Noun Phrases as Subjects

What-clauses are used to help us focus on a particular part of the sentence and to emphasize what we want to say by introducing it as a relative clause.

What-clauses are usually linked to the clause that we want to focus on with is or was.

What I now need is a new car .
A new car is what I now need.*

What I enjoyed most was seeing their new office.
Seeing their new office was what I enjoyed most.*

What-clauses are often used with verbs like adore, dislike, enjoy, hate, like, loathe, love, need, prefer, want.

What I hate most about going to a job interview is the waiting.
What I liked most about their company was the people.*

What-clauses are also often used with does/do/did and when we want to give emphasis to the whole sentence, rather than a particular clause.

*The manager interviewed all the salespeople first.
What the manager did first was interview all the salespeople.*

These sentences are useful in writing where we cannot use intonation for emphasis, but they are also often used in speech.

Examples:

- What I want you to do is to make some goals for this job.
- What I want is a used car.
- What he wanted was to tell me about another editorial assistant job.
- What worries me is that you are new and if Adam doesn't do a good job, it may reflect badly on you.

